They come out more broken, not healed.

Everyone will have to live with this. It will bring so much damage to so many.

Please think long and hard about your choices now. Think about what you want. Think about how healing can occur.

I do not believe his intent was to hurt you. That's not who he is. This is not a violent man. If he was or if I felt any weird sexual energy from him I would not have the open door policy I have with him. It's just not the case.

Please look into you heart. Please ask yourself if the punishment equals the crime.

Ask yourself if you what to hurt him or heal him.

You and everyone else is going to have to live with what you decide to do going forward.

You have all the power now. You've got him by the balls in a big way.

This is a test of everyone's character.

If there is another way for you to bring wholeness into being, please let's find it. Please let's find a path to healing.

If you are interested in this, I will do everything and everything in my power to facilitate this endeavor. As will others in the community who only wish for the best possible outcome for you and for him and for us all.

Please think about what that could look like.

It's not prison for Mike. I know that much. That will be the worse possible out come for all of us.

Please feel free to contact me any time.

In Loving Service,
Anna Marie
